Stonewall Jackson.

A week or so since an interesting extract from an exchange was published in the Times about affairs in upper Pocahontas.

Gen. Bartow in whose honor the contemplated town of Bartow is named, was spoken of as the person, who gave the immortal name of Stonewall to Gen. Jackson, at the crucial moment that turned the tide of battle at Manassas, July 31, 1861.

A brief extract from Dr. Dabney's memoir of Jackson, is to this purpose, "As the grim wrestle continued for the key of the confederate position the Federals saw that they could make no impression upon Jackson's front. They therefore extended and advanced their wings. On Jackson's left, they brought a formidable battery of six guns within musket range intending to enfilade his line while on his right their irresistible numbers overwhelmed the shattered ranks of Bee. It was then that this general rode up to Jackson, and with despairing bitterness exclaimed, 'General they are beating us back.' 'Then,' said Jackson calm and cool, 'we will give them the bayonet.' Bee seemed to catch the inspiration of his determined will, and galloping back to the broken fragments of his overtaken command said to them, 'there is Jackson standing like a stone-wall. Rally behind the Virginians. Let us determine to die here, and we will conquer, follow me.' A few score of his men reformed their ranks, and placing himself at their head, Bee charged the dense mass of the Federals, and in a moment fell dead with his face to the foe. From that time Jackson's was known as the Stonewall Brigade, a name henceforward immortal and belonging to all the ages, for the christening was baptized in the blood of its author and that wall of brave hearts has been on every battle field a steadfast bulwark of our country." Dabney's Jackson pp. 222-3.

A Liable and Successful Firm.

The trade of the Hinton Marble Works has constantly increased until the original place of business became too small to contain the necessary stock, and last fall Mr. Noel, the proprietor, began the planning of a new shop three times the capacity of the old one; but not until spring had well opened did he succeed in getting moved into the new place of business. He has now a building 20x30 feet which gives him 1800 square feet of floor space, and this is filled with stock. The front of the building has a show-room 20x35 feet which is filled with finished work. Next is the office, 15x20 feet, and next a shed-room 20x20 feet used for storing unfinished stock, and then the work room which is 20x30 feet. In addition to this he has a platform 8x50 feet running from the show-room to the work room which gives space for storing a great deal of stock. He has also perfected his arrangements so that he can both load an unload down hill handle heavy work with very little effort. The Hinton Marble Works carries a stock of from 6 to 8 carloads of marble, which is perhaps as much if not more than any other shop in the State carries. Mr. Noel buys direct from the quarries, saving any middleman's profit, and buying in carloads, gets the lowest freight rate. He has as skilled workmen as can be found in W. Va., and turns out first-class work at the lowest prices consistent with good work and material. When in need of marble work, consult his ad in this paper and give him a chance to serve you.

All persons who have relatives or friends buried at the McNeel Cemetery near Academy are hereby requested to meet there Oct. 16 1903, for the purpose of cleaning off the ground, setting up the monuments that have fallen down and any other work that is to be done. Please do not forget the day. Respectfully, E. J. K.

Joshua Dilley Found Dead.

Joshua Dilley, of Dilley's Mill, was found dead on Thorney Creek mountain last Saturday. Mr. Dilley was 77 years old and has lived all his life near Dilley's mill. On last Saturday his grandson, Russell Dilley, who lived with him, and a nephew named Levi Dilley left his home and went to what is known as the Wm. Slaton Place on top of Thorney Creek mountain to gather chestnuts. A few hours later Mr. Dilley who was in apparently good health, having eaten a hearty breakfast, got on his horse and went to the same place after chestnuts also. About an hour later two of his grand-children, Wilbert and Dorsey Dilley accompanied by a little girl named Miller, went after chestnuts also and on reaching the improved land Dilley found his grand-father lying on the ground dead. She gave the alarm and the others of the party was soon on the spot. Word was once sent to Dilley's Mill and Wm. H. Dilley and a number of others went to the scene. It appeared that he had only been dead a few minutes when found, as he had gathered a considerable bunch of chestnuts and had only been away from the rest of the party a short time, he had with him a shot gun and it seemed as if he had walked back to where his horse was hitched and set his gun down by a tree and he with a small bag of chestnuts on his shoulder had set down on a log and dropped over dead without even a struggle as the bag of chestnuts was still on his shoulder.

Sudden death seems to be a trait peculiar to his family, as the writer is informed that his father and mother and two brothers died suddenly.

Mr. Dilley was a devout Christian and highly respected by all who knew him. He is survived by a wife, five sons and one daughter and a host of friends.

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to his friends and relatives in their sad bereavements. His body was interred Sunday afternoon on the lands of Wm. H. Dilley, at a spot where the deceased had chosen four or five years ago as a resting place.

As his body rests in the tomb may his soul rest in Christ who is able to give rest and bear all our burdens.

A FRIEND.

The Dowrites

This is the week that Alexander Dowrie, alias "Elijah", will make his descent upon New York to convince the city of sin and bring it to repentance. He has some 4,000 followers who will go with him. He gives his flock the pleasant choice of going to New York, or to wither away and their posterity cease from off the face of the earth. While Dowrie may be a great and good man, there is too much of Mahomet about him for us to fall down and worship. About the only reasonable thing he has said recently is that he said he had reached the conclusion that some of the New Yorkers were intellectual beings. In other words, not all of them were not like the thousands of Nineveh who did not know the right hand from the left. As Dowrie with his common property ideas, has not made Chicago, nor even Zion City itself a paradise, we do not believe he will cause an overgreat commotion in New York.

That Common Pest.

A theory has been recently launched to the effect that the phenomenal growth of insurance companies secret organizations and the like, which rely upon the efforts of agents for their increase is due in part to an equally phenomenal decline in the powers of resistance of the average American. We admit that this age will go down in the world's history as the period in which the crop of agents grew exceeding rank, but we hold that their great success is accountable, not to the decrease of the will power of the average man, but to the development of the jaw of the agent. The whole question of education is involved; it is not admitted that the person who makes a special study of a particular subject has an advantage over the common run of men. The agent makes a specialty of joining us out of our money in exchange for things that we have a faint idea we will sometime find a use for all admit that each time the agent does it he commits a crime for which instant death would be meted out to him were he to get his just deserts. This should have been done with the first agents, but their number is now so great that a few more or less make no difference. The only plan to rid ourselves of agents by the wholesale is through the agents themselves. We propose to compile a volume as to the proper way to eradicate this pest. The book will be composed of short lessons alphabetically arranged—the first chapter dealing with Axes (both pole and two faced) in connection with Agents; the second chapter would be Bull dogs, chapter 3 would take up Clubs and Coronets and so on down the line to U which treats on Undertakers, an indispensable adjunct to Agents if the teachings of the treatise are consistently followed out. The volume will be sold exclusively by agents who will minutely explain the whole scheme from cover to cover as is their want. This gives the citizen an opportunity to make practical use of the information gleaned from the agent's talk. By this simple means the book agent will be eradicated, and the lesson learned will gradually extend against other branches of the service. The plan is so simple that we have often wondered why somebody else has not thought of it.

How old is Ann?

This is the problem: Mary is 24 years old, Mary is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was as old as Ann is now. How old is Ann?

The puzzle has come, been seen and has conquered at Harvard University. It is mightier a tackle than football. It has caught New England in its compelling grasp. Out of the figurative that it has evoked in the East the slate and pencil industries are expecting a boom to banish all thoughts of a winter of discontent.

In its simplicity is the alluring strength of this problem. The statement of terms involves perfect frankness and no useless multiplication of words. "Mary is 24 years old," and so forth. Adorable Mary! But behold at the finish the leading question, "How old is Ann?"

An Agent's Trick.

We recently saw a fraudulent note by the means of which some of our citizens got swindled some months ago by lightening rod agents. The note read all right, making provisions that the money was to be paid only under certain conditions. The blank left for the name however, was so far to the left hand side of the note that the end could be torn off without injuring the signature leaving a promise to pay out and out. This is a game old as the hills, but is one by which the unwary are caught even at this late day. It is always best when you are compelled to sign a paper to write your name in such a way that no part of the paper can be cut away without taking the signature with it.

Two new publications are on our desk this week. The one is the Eastern Panhandle published at Shepherdstown, which we trust will always be as full of well boiled matter as the first issue. The other is the Presbyterian Visitor gotten out monthly by the Stuart Memorial Church of which Rev. H. W. McLaughlin is pastor. The Visitor is a model of its kind, and we wish its important sphere, that of encouraging people to church work, may be broadened.

NOTICE OF ELECTION.

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held at the various voting places of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, Tuesday the 3rd day of November, 1903, in pursuance of the annexed act of the Legislature:

(Senate Bill No. 83.)

CHAPTER 62.

AN ACT to reform, alter, and modify the county court of the county of Pocahontas, under the twenty-ninth section of the eighth article of the constitution of the State of West Virginia.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of West Virginia:

Sec. 1. The county of Pocahontas shall be laid off into four districts as nearly equal as may be in territory and population. The present divisions of said county into districts shall constitute such districts until changed by the county court in the manner provided by law. The county court established in the said county, by the eighth article of the constitution of this State, is hereby reformed, altered and modified that is to say: The county court of the county of Pocahontas shall be composed of one commissioner from each district of said county, who shall be a resident of his district and shall hold his office for a term of two years. Should any commissioner remove from the district at the time of his election, his office shall thereby become vacant. The office of commissioner and justice of the peace shall be deemed incompatible. Each commissioner shall receive for his service two dollars for each day he shall attend the court, to be paid out of the county treasury.

Sec. 2. At the general election in the month of November, one thousand nine hundred and four, and at each succeeding general election, there shall be elected by the voters of each said district one commissioner, whose term of office shall commence on the first day of January next after his election, and continue two years.

Sec. 3. So far as they are not inconsistent herewith, all the provisions of chapter thirty-five, of the code of West Virginia, "concerning county courts, their jurisdiction and powers," and all provisions of law respecting county courts generally, the commissioners composing such courts, and the clerk of such courts, shall be applicable to the county court herein provided, and to the commissioners composing the same; and the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county now in office, and his successors, shall be clerk of the county court herein provided.

Sec. 4. The first meeting of the county court herein provided, shall be held on the first Monday in January, in the year nineteen hundred and five, or as soon thereafter as a majority of them may assemble for the purpose, at which time, and annually thereafter, at their first meeting in each year, or as soon thereafter as practicable, they shall elect one of their number president of the court.

Sec. 5. At an election to be held for this purpose on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, one thousand nine hundred and three, the question of the adoption of the system, provided by this act, shall be submitted to the voters of the county of Pocahontas voting at such election. Notice of such election shall be given by the publication of this act, in each newspaper published in said county, once in each week for four successive weeks; but the failure to give such notice shall not invalidate the election to be held hereunder. Those voting for said system shall have written or printed on their ballots the words "For modification of county court," and those voting against it shall have written or printed on their ballots "Against modification of county court;" and the clerk of the county court of said county is hereby directed to provide and have printed a ballot of convenient size, distinctly printed, and in form substantially as follows:

BALLOT FOR CHANGE OF COUNTY COURT.

For Modification of County Court. Against Modification of County Court.

The same number of said ballots shall be printed and shall be supplied to the several voting places in each district, and paid for in the same manner as is provided and set out and specified in chapter three of the code of West Virginia. The commissioners of election at the several voting places in each county, shall, upon request, furnish to each voter one of said separate ballots to be used by him for voting on the question of said change, but any voter shall also have the right to vote on the question of said proposed change by any other ballot, written or printed, which he may see fit to use, and which sufficiently discloses his intention; and no ballot cast at said election on the question of the proposed change shall be rejected if it sufficiently appears therefrom what the voter intended; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the county court of said county to have said publication of said notice made in the manner herein prescribed.

Sec. 6. The election to be held under this act on the said first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, one thousand nine hundred and three, shall be held, conducted, supervised and returned, in the same manner as now provided by law for the election of members of the legislature; and all persons entitled to vote at a general election in this State shall be entitled to vote at any election held under this act.

The county court of said county shall at a regular or special session thereof, held not later than the first Tuesday in October, one thousand nine hundred and three, appoint three commissioners of election for each voting place in said county, as provided by law, and the result at each place of voting shall be certified and returned to the county court of said county, and said court shall ascertain and declare the result at said election the same as the result of election of members of the legislature is ascertained and declared, under the laws of this State, and especially chapter three of the code of one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine as amended, as far as they are applicable thereto.

Sec. 7. If the majority of the votes cast upon the question be "For Modification of County Court" this act shall be of no further force and effect, but if a majority of such votes be "Against Modification of County Court" this act shall be of no further effect.

Ten Thousand Churches.

In the United States have used the Longman & Martinez Pure Paints.

Every Church will be given a liberal quantity whenever they paint.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for Linseed oil [worth 60 cents] which you do when you buy this paint in a can with a paint label on it.

8 & 6 make 14, therefore when you want fourteen gallons of paint you will only need to buy 8 & 6, and mix six gallons of pure linseed oil with it.

You need only four gallons of L. & M. Paint, and three gallons of oil mixed therewith to paint a four sided house.

Houses painted with these paint never grow shabby, even after 18 years.
